

THE FACTS

With one in six workers in the UK experiencing emotional anxiety or depression at any one time, stress and mental ill health affects every businesses' workforce, whether large or small.

ACAS estimates the annual cost to UK employers at nearly 30 billion pounds through absence, reduced productivity and in replacing lost staff—close to £1,000 per employee.

There are proven ways you can reduce these impacts on your team and improve your business outcomes.

INVEST IN TIME OUTDOORS: Employee wellbeing, engagement and positive team relationships make for better business

WHY FOREST SCHOOLS?

“Contact with nature provides a low-cost, high-gain approach to employee effectiveness and wellbeing”

R. Kaplan, Doctor of Psychology

By its nature, the Forest Schools approach embodies the ‘Five Steps to Wellbeing’ - evidence based actions, endorsed by the NHS and Mind, which improve our emotional health and overall wellbeing:

INSPIRATIONAL • MEMORABLE • EFFECTIVE

CONNECT: Build networks and relationships outside the office

BE ACTIVE: Discover the freedom of the outdoors

TAKE NOTICE: Enjoy the moment, see yourself and the world differently

LEARN: Master a new skill, unearth a hidden interest

GIVE: Do things for yourself and others
